OVERVIEW OF PRACTICES

Introduction

Liaoning provincial environmental protection volunteers Federation is an NGO founded in November 2003. It is involved in promoting green civilization, green sense, green culture, and green way practice of life to enhance people's awareness of the environmental protection in Liaoning.

Activity

- Conducts garbage recycling and reuse award shows,
- Conducts garbage recycling and reuse pilot project, and
- Conducts conservation-oriented society recycling design creativity contest

The activities includes waste management, recycling, reuse, along with general education on such issues, namely various essay, painting and creative recycling competitions, and numerous recycling projects targeting e-waste and residential waste. It was also engaged in conducting award shows such as the residents' garbage recycling and reuse awards show at the Shenyang-chuen park in June 5, 2005 where, 1,000 people actively took part. A pilot project of Shenyang residents' garbage recycling and reuse was also conducted where four communities each of 60 people participated. In 2005, a conservation-oriented society recycling design creativity contested was held and nearly 10,000 people from 16 universities got involved.

Outcome

Promotion of public knowledge about environmental issues and awareness and participation in environmental protection activities. Active participation of public with new ideas by conducting contests on reuse and recycling issues.
